World's first glimpse of the little prince

KIRSTY WIGGLESWORTH/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Royal birth, day 2. Couple still deciding on name for newest royal

A beaming Prince William and his wife, Kate, emerged from a London hospital on Tuesday with their newborn baby boy, presenting the world with a first glimpse of the prince who is third in line to the throne.

The royal couple, both 31, looked happy and relaxed as they waved at the crowds of journalists and on-lookers gathered outside London's St. Mary's Hospital, posing for photographs and joking with reporters.

Kate, wearing a baby-blue polka-dot Jenny Packham dress, smiled and waved as she stepped out from the hospital doors with the future monarch in her arms.

"It's very emotional. It's such a special time. I think any parent will know what this feeling feels like,"

she told journalists.

Kate then gave the baby to her husband, who, cradling their child, said: "He's got her looks, thankfully. He's got a good pair of lungs on him, that's for sure."

William laughed when a reporter asked him about the baby's hair.

"He's got way more than me, thank God," he said.

The couple also revealed that William has had a go at changing the infant's first diaper. "He's very good at it," Kate said.

The new parents drew whoops and applause from well-wishers as they revealed the newest member of Britain's royal family. William said they're still trying to decide what to name the little prince.

The couple re-entered the hospital to place the child in a car seat before re-emerging to get into an SUV. Palace officials said they will head to an apartment in Kensington Palace and spend the night there.

Canadian Tire Centre.

Concert gets off to late start but all is forgiven by adoring fans

graham.lanktree@metronews.ca

Fans came from near and far to be swept up in the effervescent excitement when international pop sensation Justin Bieber flew onto the stage at Canadian Tire Centre Tuesday night.

He was a little late, but that was quickly forgiven by fans when he descended onto the stage supported by angel wings and surrounded by pyrotechnics and laser light to perform All Around the World. Bieber quickly chatted up the crowd after the tune and sang a couple bars a cappella.

Some travelled from as far away as South America and Labrador's Happy Valley-Goose Bay to see the show before the seemingly never-ending Believe tour's North American leg wraps up Aug. 10 in Atlanta, Ga.

"It's about two days drive on a dirt road and then you hit the highway in Quebec and it's straight on," said father George Andrews, who brought his daughter Breana from Labrador to the concert for her 14th birthday. "We just got a call that at 4:15 p.m. we're going for the meet-and-greet with Justin. We bought two really expensive tickets. We're in the first three rows."

Breana, a fan since Bieber's YouTube days, said she would try to keep her cool while meeting the star.

"I'll try, try to be civil," she said, adding that "it was a little mind blowing" seeing her first Bieber concert in Montreal last November.

"They love him so much and he's the most important thing in this world for them," Valentina Zorrilla said of a book of 200 letters penned by Bieber's fan club in Colombia, which she hand-delivered to Bieber's mom Pattie Mallette at a book signing earlier in the day.

Zorrilla travelled to Ottawa from Colombia with her parents Freddie and Maria to see the show for her 15th birthday.

"In Colombia, 15 years is important," said Freddie. "In Canada and the U.S., it's 16."

Bieber's recent antics speeding in a Lamborghini in Dubai and urinating into a mop bucket in a New York City restaurant left many parents unfazed.

"I remember being a teenager and what we used to do. It's just because he's in the public eye all the time. Sometimes I feel sorry for him; he can't just be a teenager," said Debbie Pilon, who brought her seven-year-old daughter Tegan to the show.

"I like him because he's a good singer and he's cute," Tegan said, adding her favourite song is Beauty and a Beat. "I've liked him for a long time."

About 175 screaming fans proved Justin Bieber's mom Pattie Mallette is a draw in her own right as she connected with teens while signing her new book in Ottawa on Tuesday.

"The only reason I wrote this book was to really help inspire other people who have been through difficult circumstances," said Mallette of her memoir Nowhere But Up: The Story of Justin Bieber's Mom, before signing copies at the Pinecrest Shopping Centre Chapters.

"For me, when I was growing up tackling some darkness — especially the abuse, depression and anxiety — somebody would share with me their story," Mallette said. "It would really give me hope."

Bieber was born when she was 17.

"When we moved out of the crisis pregnancy centre, I lived in government housing," Mallette said. "I was on social assistance, I worked two to three jobs trying to put food on the table and sometimes going to food banks."

But her troubles didn't start there. In the book, she shares that from birth she found herself in abusive relationships. Her biological father beat her mother, she was sexually abused from age five after her father left and at 17 she attempted suicide.

An important part of her own life was having a mentor, she said, adding that a man at her local youth centre helped steer her on a better path.

Although her son has gotten into trouble lately, Mallette said, strong male role models surround him.

"Even his manager Scooter is a great mentor for him," she said.

Prison. Killer in iPod mugging dies after assault

An Ottawa man jailed for murdering another man over an iPod has died at the Collins Bay Institution following a "serious assault," the OPP says.

The provincial police said in a news release that on Sunday, members of the joint-forces penitentiary squad responded to the assault at Collins Bay Institution in Kingston.

Around 3:05 p.m., two male inmates were involved in a fight and then taken to hospital. A 41-year-old man was treated and returned to the institution, but Shawn McKenzie, 24, died in hospital Tuesday, the OPP said.

A post-mortem examination is being scheduled and the OPP said the penitentiary squad, under the direction of OPP Det. Insp. Rob Hagerman, is continuing the investigation.

McKenzie was convicted in 2009 of murdering Danial Oatway during a September 2006 mugging on an OC Transpo bus.

Group home cynically saved by Liberals: NDP

Was facing closure. Clients and family question why old staffers at home for disabled being ditched

graham.lanktree@metronews.ca

Instead of being forced from their home, 15 blind and developmentally disabled Ottawans will get new staff for their group home from the Liberal government — but NDP Leader Andrea Horwath isn't buying it.

"I was contacted by TELCI workers last week who were very concerned about the changes happening," said Horwath, noting two Therapeutic & Education Living Centres

Inc. homes in Ottawa nearly shut down before the province stepped in Tuesday.

A lack of provincial funding led to the threat of closure in the first place, said Horwath. The group's $1.6-million budget, funded largely through money from the province, has not grown since 2009 and similar services across the province are coping with inflation and closure, she said.

"Where there's a potential for something to go wrong, they all of a sudden get busy," said Horwath of the Liberal response to the impending closure as she campaigned for the Ottawa South byelection, "not for the people involved, but for their own political fortunes."

Rather than break up the family of residents, some who have lived with one another for 28 years, the government has rallied the support of three agencies to take over operation of the group homes with workers from the same union.

Now the residents, their parents and care providers are wondering why the current caregivers aren't allowed to stay on.

"It's taken its toll on him," said Christine Forget of her 63-year-old brother Yves Vinette, who has lived in the home nearly 30 years, and became distressed when he found out his home could potentially disappear. "He wants to remain with the staff."

"He doesn't adapt well to change," she added. "Whenever they've changed his worker in the past, he takes forever to adapt to a new person. I'm very fearful of what's going to happen when he wakes up in the morning and his house is filled with strangers."

Drug deal gone wrong? Alleged victim of screwdriver stabbing recounts attack

Christian Nkusi sat calmly in an Ottawa courthouse as a man recounted the morning Nkusi allegedly stabbed him multiple times in the neck with a screwdriver before leaving him for dead.

Handule Farah, 37, claims the stabbing resulted from a crack deal gone wrong. On the morning of Aug. 21, 2012, Farah said he asked to buy a gram of crack cocaine from Nkusi for $80. Farah only had $20.

"I came here for $20?

(Nkusi) was upset before the stabbing," Farah told Crown prosecutor John Semenoff.

Farah, who said he has been off drugs for seven months, explained there was also an issue with Nkusi's Rwandan passport. The passport was found in Farah's former apartment on Van Lang Private in Ottawa's west side as paramedics worked to save Farah's life.

Farah told Nkusi's defence attorney Jeff Langevin that the passport had simply fallen off the table, and he later hid it under a carpet in the apartment. When asked why he kept it, Farah said, "OK, maybe I thought, 'You want your passport, give me some drugs.'"

Nkusi has been charged with attempted murder in relation to the incident and has pleaded not guilty. A Canada-wide search warrant was issued for him in August 2012.

Farah's testimony is scheduled to continue tomorrow.

Premiers' summit

More female leaders, but gov't still far from equal

When Canada's premiers sit down Thursday for their semi-annual summit, they'll be making history by changing the face of provincial and territorial leadership.

For the first time, there will be six women at the meeting in Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., representing about 85 per cent of the country's population. And at the head of the table will be Kathleen Wynne, who was sworn in as Ontario's first woman premier just six months ago.

"I was just talking to a grandmother who was saying her granddaughter wants to be the prime minister," Wynne said in an interview.

"The fact is that it's very important that people see themselves represented."

But the appearance of gender equality can be deceiving, experts say. Even though six provinces and territories are led by women, female representation hasn't improved in the legislatures, said Christine de Clercy of the University of Western Ontario. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Naming the U.K.'s next generation

Branding for babies

"The public's image of this child could quite possibly be influenced by the baby's name."

Albert Mehrabian, a professor emeritus of psychology at UCLA and an expert on baby names

The Victorians. The Edwardians. The Elizabethans.

Royal names can define a generation. So imagine the pressure on the new parents to pick the right one.

Now that Prince William and his wife Kate have a baby boy — the third in line for the throne — they must choose the name for a royal who may take Britain into the 22nd century. They'll start by considering British monarchs from the past.

Elizabeth I offered her name to the golden era in which Britannia ruled the waves and the Elizabethans consolidated a renaissance of national prosperity. Victoria's reign was defined by rapid industrialization with straight-backed Victorian morality. Her son, Edward VII, lent his name to the champagne and cigar period before World War I in which the rigid class system came under attack.

"Names do define an era," said Robert Lacey, a royal historian, who has written books on Prince William's mother and grandmother. "Who knows as we look into the future what will happen."

With so many people to please — inside and outside the palace walls — the House of Windsor is likely to pick more than one name for the boy who was born in London on Monday. After all, his father Prince William, a.k.a. William Arthur Philip Louis, has four. There may be a nod to great-grandfather Prince Philip, or grandfathers Prince Charles and Michael Middleton, Kate's father. Or King Arthur. Or a host of other dead kings.

But the first name, that has to hit the right note. It is likely to hang around a bit.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baby could signify an open age of Royals

A boy waits outside the hospital where the prince was born. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This child, whatever his name, is likely to mark a watershed in the relationship between the royals and their subjects.

Prince William chose to eschew a royal match and married a commoner from the village of Bucklebury — continuing the process of making monarchy more accessible — an idea championed by his mother, Princess Diana.

The heir may give a name to a new century, to a country that has changed so much socially and philosophically that the daughter of a flight attendant and an air traffic controller is now in line to be queen.

"This is the historical element of this," royal historian Robert Lacey said. "Let us see how that is reflected in the names." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dutch judges blocked the extradition Tuesday of a terror suspect to the United States, saying he was tortured in Pakistan after his 2010 arrest and it is unclear whether American authorities had any involvement.

The Hague Court of Appeal ruling was a significant victory for the man identified only as Sabir K. in his attempts to avoid being sent for trial in America, but Dutch authorities can still

"He is very satisfied that the role of the Americans is finally being looked at in a critical light," his lawyer Andre Seebregts said. "He has said from the very beginning that the Americans were involved."

Sabir K., who has Dutch and Pakistani nationality, was arrested in Pakistan in 2010 and expelled to the Netherlands in 2011. U.S. authorities accuse him of working with al-Qaida from 2004 to 2010, and of plotting a suicide attack on an American military base in Afghanistan.

In the mood to splurge.

Canadians indulged in some retail therapy, surprising experts and boosting expectations for economic growth

Canadian consumers went on a shopping spree in May, triggering a stunning jump in retail sales that will almost certainly help boost second-quarter economic growth beyond expectations.

The raw numbers stunned economists that had expected a modest 0.4 per cent bump. Instead, Statistics Canada said the retail sector boosted sales five times that by 1.9 per cent during the month to $40.4 billion.

Particularly meaningful for gross domestic product growth, sales in volume terms also expanded by 1.9 per cent, meaning the increase was not related to currency fluctuations.

"It's hard to say what happened," said Jimmy Jean, an economist with Desjardins Capital Markets. "Everything went right, it seems."

'Wake-up call.' Canadian company facing lawsuits for overseas incidents

Three lawsuits against a Canadian mining company over alleged shootings and gang rapes at a Guatemalan project will be allowed to proceed in Canada following a ruling that makes it possible for firms to face liability at home for incidents that occur overseas.

Lawyers for the plaintiffs, 13 Mayan Guatemalans, said the decision is a "wake-up call" for Canadian companies about their responsibilities at foreign mining projects.

"This step in the case uses existing legal rules that have not been applied in this way before," lawyer Murray Klippenstein said in an interview Tuesday. "Mining companies, and maybe other companies operating abroad, need to take a very, very, serious look at the possibility or likelihood that shenanigans abroad that they thought would never result in liability may result in accountability in Canadian courts."

The suits allege that security personnel, along with members of the police and military, attacked and raped 11 women in 2007 who were forcibly removed from their village in relation to the Fenix project.

Two related lawsuits seek to hold HudBay Minerals Inc. and a subsidiary responsible for the subsequent killing of community leader Adolfo Ich as a result of a land dispute and the shooting and paralysis of local resident German Chub.

HudBay, which didn't own the mining operations when most of the alleged incidents occurred, has said the accusations contradict available information and that it would defend itself "vigorously against them." None of the allegations have been proven in court. THE CANADIAN PRESS

SHAMING THE COUCH CRITICS

The way I see it, our culture is separated into two groups: those who do, and those who watch. While most of us would rather be doing even half of the things we're watching, it's much safer to sit on high horses atop ivory towers in glass houses throwing stones and pointing fingers and such. It's like playing a game of truth or dare, only when it's our turn, we pass. How wonderful it is to keep our secrets hidden while watching others exposed, sitting in judgment, silently thanking the heavens that no one video-taped that drunken night in Thailand with the woman you can't be sure really was.

Hence our fascination with reality TV. We've gone from being spectators to a society of shameless voyeurs.

And though I try to be, I am no better. There was never enough alcohol to make me watch Jersey Shore, and every brief foray into an episode of Keeping up with the Kardashians ended with me rocking back and forth in the fetal position praying for Armageddon. But I have watched my share of these shows, and the stench of that shame still lingers.

JUST SAYIN'
Mike Benhaim
Guest columnist

Even worse is the news. Reality stars sign releases, but when the media gets hold of a real scandal, look out! When it was discovered that Tiger Woods was having extramarital affairs, even the male newscasters sanctimoniously shook their heads in disappointment. Really? Where's Heidi Fleiss when you need her?

Now I don't condone cheating, but most men are barely shocked when a friend bangs the cafeteria lady at the YMCA, let alone a celebrity athlete shagging an exotic swimsuit model. Ladies, there are many respectable men out there, but at least a portion of every day is occupied by fantasies best unshared. Yet when someone acts on them and gets busted on Cheaters, you can turn to your wife and say, "That's shameful."

And how many of us can sing as well as contestants on The Voice or American Idol? It doesn't stop us from critiquing their choice of arrangement or pitch. The couch is the new judges' bench.

Until recently, viewership has always been about the vicarious thrill of those we could only dream of emulating athletes, superheroes, models or rock stars. Now we spend our time peering into the dysfunction of people whose lives make us feel better about our own. That is, until we discover we've made them rich. Yeah, it's one thing watching strangers pinpoint their child's paternity on Maury Povich, but it's quite another when Honey Boo-Boo moves into the house next door. That's when we collectively unleash that torrent of negative energy that ultimately begs for their failure.

Again, I stand among you, guilty of the very transgressions I denounce. I simply wonder if our collective karma is not better served watching what inspires our highest doing, and affecting change from there. Just sayin'.

Paul Sullivan will return July 31.

Kind of like Find my iPhone, but for your bike. A small GPS device attaches to your bike (under the seat, behind a water bottle cage or somewhere else discreet) and lets you track your bike through your phone. You can also track your own rides, which you can brag about later to your friends using Spike Bike.

Bikeshepherd.org

Not only can you register your ride on Bike Shepherd, you can also buy tags that can help recover your bike if it does succumb to the lock-cutting

Hugh Jackman returns once again as Wolverine.

What's old is new with Wolverine

Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

Other than Captain Canuck, Wolverine is the best known superhero to hail from the Great White North.

According to his comic book backstory he was born in 19th century Canada — Northern Alberta to be exact — and served in the First Canadian Parachute Battalion before being recruited by Team X, a CIA black-ops group. When movie fans first encountered the character, however, little was known about him.

At the beginning of the original X-Men movie he was suffering from memory loss and couldn't remember how he became a superhero with retractable bone claws, made of the near indestructible metal alloy adamantium bonded to his skeleton and a healing ability that allows him to quickly recover from virtually any wound, disease or toxin.

This weekend The Wolverine continues the story, although star Hugh Jackman is quick to point out that it is not a sequel.

"With an all-new cast and setting it in Japan, it's going to give us a whole new visual esthetic," he told Total Film.

With this film, Jackman emerges as the first actor to play a comic book hero in more than four consecutive films since Christopher Reeve as Superman.

Interview. Aubrey Plaza talks about how her new film, The To Do List, is putting a fresh take on an old theme — people losing their virginity

NED

Metro World News in Hollywood

For Aubrey Plaza, discussing her new film, The To Do List, offers far too many opportunities for over-sharing. The '90s-set film follows Brandy (Plaza), a type-A brainiac determined to start college sexually experienced by way of a detailed — if unromantic — list of activities to check off. And Plaza is having trouble keeping her own list to herself.

Considering the sexual frankness of the film, how awkward have the interviews gotten?

People keep trying to trick

Figuring it all out

"That's one of the reasons that I wanted to do the movie, because I'd never really read anything that truthfully explored that time in a girl's life, just a really frank portrayal of a girl figuring out how to do really simple things."

Talking about her new movie The To Do List me into telling them about my first sexual experiences, and then I almost am like, "Well, when I was ... wait a minute! I don't need to tell you that. That's for my own brain to remember." For some reason this movie kind of makes you think that it makes sense to ask about (this). But no, nothing's been awkward, except for me because I'm always awkward in interviews.

Do you find it weird or insulting that Hollywood always acts so surprised when a female-focused comedy does well?

Yeah, I feel that. I don't know why. There's just as many women as there are guys, so you would think that it wouldn't be shocking that there's a female audience and that there's people out there interested in seeing female-centric movies.

Do you think The To Do List would work in a contemporary setting?

I think there could be a story about a girl going through her firsts, because I think that's just a universal thing that happens, but I don't think this story could be told in 2013 for many different reasons. This movie was set in a time when people didn't Google everything and people weren't figuring things out online, which I think is the case nowadays. Who knows what teenagers are doing these days. I don't know. I mean, I'm 29 and I feel totally out of touch. Things have changed at such a rapid pace that who knows how people are learning anything or where they're getting their information.

It's great to see a movie taking the awkward teenage sexual experience, which is usually told as a guy's story, and showing the girls' side.

Being frank about sexual things? I know. That's one of the reasons that I wanted to do the movie, because I'd never really read anything that truthfully explored that time in a girl's life, just a really frank portrayal of a girl figuring out how to do really simple things — well, I don't know if they're simple. Just really basic sexual acts. I don't know, everything I say sounds wrong (laughs). Just make me sound better and smarter.

I have tried to keep Amanda Bynes out of The Word because she's obviously mentally unstable and her highjinks are more sad and disturbing than amusing. However, this item caught my eye: The former actress is now being hospitalized for setting a fire in the driveway of a stranger's home in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Calif.

The cops investigated the former child-star-turned-Gremlin and determined she needed to be hospitalized on a 5150 hold, which is an involuntary hospitalization for mental evaluation that lasts 72 hours.

So this is good news. Maybe she will now get the help she needs because it appears she has other problems.

Bynes has reportedly jeopardized the last important relationship she has left by allegedly stealing from her pot dealer, according to Radar Online.

As a result, the dealer

When it comes to choosing a protein powder, not all things are created equal. For athletes, as well as for those simply looking to increase their daily protein intake, it is often recommended to consume a daily protein smoothie. This provides increased energy, muscle repair, appetite control, and nourishment to the body. While it is common to consume protein powders for increased health, not all protein powders contain healthy, nourishing ingredients. In fact, some are actually loaded with added sugar, artificial sweeteners, fillers, GMOs, hormones and antibiotics, as well as other artificial and unhealthy ingredients. So, if your intention is to get healthy or stay healthy, you must make sure that you are choosing the right type of protein powder.

When Choosing a Whey Protein Powder Consider These 4 Tips:

1. Choose New Zealand Whey – It is the cleanest and purest whey available. The New Zealand Dairy industry has incredibly high standards for product safety and the humane treatment of their cows. Their cows are never injected with growth hormones, antibiotics, genetically modified organisms, or any other chemicals.
2. Choose a brand with added enzymes such as protease, lactase and amylase – These enzymes help to make the protein more digestible.
3. Choose one that is cold temperature micro-filtered. This ensures the highest quality and biological value.
4. Choose an all-natural brand, free of artificial flavours and artificial colors.

Countdown to Glasgow 2014

Commonwealth Games. Scotland's largest city gears up to host thousands of elite athletes next summer

life@metronews.ca

In one year, on July 23, for the first time, Glasgow, Scotland will welcome more than 6,500 athletes and team officials to the 2014 Commonwealth Games. While rival city Edinburgh has hosted twice, the people of Glasgow are excited to put their own unique stamp on this elite athletic competition, which will run until Aug. 3, 2014.

"From the beginning, the Commonwealth Games has not just been about the sport, but the arts, and the community as well," says Kate McCheyne, Public Relations Manager for the games. While the athletes themselves won't descend upon the city until July 2014, the venues which will be used for the events will all have been completed, or refurbished, a full year before the games, allowing the community to enjoy the facilities before and, most importantly, after the games.

This is a sentiment reinforced by John Egan, of GlasgowLife, who is responsible for the management of the Sir Chris Hoy velodrome, where both the cycling and badminton events will be held. "There's a misconception that the velodrome was built just for these games," he said of the facility, which opened in October, 2012, "But it was built for Glaswegians." Since the doors opened, (as of time of writing) at least 130,000 locals have passed through the doors to take advantage not only of the cycling track, but the state of the art gym (supplied with Technogym equipment, supplier to the Olympics). Sports are an integral part of the city, with an estimated 10,000 jobs in the field.

But it's not just the residents of Glasgow who are embracing the spirit of the games. When the call for volunteers went out, more than 50,000 applied from across the U.K., with only 15,000 to be in the final selection.

Accessibility is also a key theme for the games. One million tickets will be on sale from Aug. 19 to Sept. 16, both online and via paper application, and can be paid for either online, or via cheque or postal order, which is very unusual in today's electronic ticketing world. Tickets will be priced as low as $23.73, and at half price for children, with "babes in arms" (under two years) free of charge.

There is very much a youth focus on the games, with half of the athletes under the age of 25. The games mascot, Clyde, was chosen out of a contest open only to children, and out of 4,000 applicants, won by a 12 year-old girl after rounds of blind judging. The Glasgow 2014 tartan was designed by Aamir Mehmood, an arts student who beat out thousands of entries from more than 300 schools, and the digital media game has proven a hit with young fans. And for the first time, the volunteer age has been dropped to 16.

The Games has learned many valuable lessons from their Olympic counterparts, and many team members from the Glasgow Commonwealth Games shadowed their counterparts in London to learn. One of the main complaints about the London Olympics (my own personally, being over there at the time) was that tickets were not readily available, many of them having been given to corporate sponsors.

This frustration was compounded by the fact that sponsors did not utilize the tickets, and scalping or reselling of tickets was heavily enforced, leaving many empty seats in venues. In Glasgow, 70 per cent of tickets for each event are guaranteed to go to the public.

Unlike the Olympics and its Torch Run, which includes many torches, the Queen's Baton Relay of the Commonwealth Games is just one baton, which will have a message inserted in it, to the athletes, from the Queen. The baton is run person to person across all Commonwealth nations, including a jaunt in Canada scheduled for April 26 (cities to be announced).

Everybody in the pub gettin' whisky

It's time to imbibe.

You can't go to Scotland without sampling some of its boozy fare

life@metronews.ca

"You're in Scotland now — you can just call it whisky." Bartenders in Scotland are a patient lot when it comes to mixing Scotch whisky with tourists. And with 40 bottles of it sold worldwide every second, this is big business on a global scale. While the ingredients are simple — malt barley, water and yeast — the distilling process is an artform.

Whisky is aged in oak casks, obtained from bourbon distilleries in the U.S. (where it's required by law to only use a cask once) or from Spanish sherry-makers. This lends the whisky the flavours of the cask's previous occupant. Whiskies are either blended or single malts, produced in six Scottish regions, each with its own signature traits. To qualify as a single malt, whisky must be 1) made in Scotland, 2) bottled in Scotland, and 3) aged at least three years. The age on the whisky label always refers to the youngest whisky in the blend.

Whisky regions

Speyside: Home to the Malt Whisky Trail, this is the northern region on the banks of the River Spey between Inverness and Aberdeen, where more than half of Scotland's distilleries are found. Though hard to categorize because there are so many to choose from, these whiskies have a stronger character, with slightly smoky toffee and floral notes. The concentration of distilleries here dates back to a time when whisky was illegal, and the moonshiners needed seclusion amongst the rolling hills and winding roads. It's

Shaking things up

Whisky cocktail

While purists may shudder, whisky is turning up on smart cocktail menus around the world. Here is a recipe for the Smokestack Manhattan from Rob Wilkie, head bartender at the Blythswood Square Hotel in Glasgow:

2 oz. Laphroaig 10 Year Old Whisky half oz. Campari
half oz. Crème de Cacao
1 oz. Red Dubonnet
Mix and stir with ice, strain, then garnish with an orange twist.

also no coincidence that the water here is top notch.

Highlands: Essentially, all the area around Speyside. Lighter, sweeter flavours take the stage here, with more nutty and floral traits.

Lowlands: Everything south of the line between Edinburgh and Glasgow. Whisky here is often triple-distilled, similar to Irish whiskey (note the different spelling), resulting in a lighter, smooth and mild taste.

Islay: Distilleries on this island off the west coast employ peat to dry the barley, which imparts a heavier, smoky, salty flavour.

Island: This region includes the other islands of Arran, Jura, Mull and Skye. You'll find a more tempered peatiness here, mixed with caramel and vanilla notes.

Campbeltown: This area on the Kintyre Peninsula produces just a few whiskies, each with a dry, smoky, salty character.

Water? Ice? Drink whisky however you like it. TIM STEWART

Roasted Garlic

1. Heat grill to medium, with one side prepped for indirect heat.

2. Remove outer layer of papery skin from garlic. Slice off top 1/2 inch from pointed top of garlic head. Set garlic, cut side up, on large square of foil. Drizzle with the olive oil, then wrap foil up and over the garlic to form a loose packet.

3. Set garlic over cooler side of the grill and cook 40 minutes, or until the cloves are golden-brown and soft. Remove from the grill and let cool. To remove the cloves, simply squeeze the entire head (or each clove) and the cloves should pop out of their skins. Set aside until ready to make garlic mayo.

30 minutes, the skins should slip easily off the peppers. Slice them open, remove the seeds, then cut into large strips.

3. In bowl, mix vinegar, olive oil, rosemary and a bit each of salt and pepper. Add pepper strips, turning to coat, and set aside to marinate for at least 30 minutes.

4. When ready to grill, return the grill to high heat.

5. Set the mushrooms and zucchini in a large bowl. Pour the marinade off the peppers and onto the zucchini and mushrooms, tossing them lightly to coat well.

6. Grill the mushrooms, grill side up, for 8 to 10 minutes, then flip and grill for another minute, or until completely tender. Grill the zucchini slices for 3 minutes per side.

7. Split rolls in half. Brush the cut sides lightly with oil. Place cut side down on grill for 2 to 3 minutes, or until golden brown.

8. Meanwhile, in a small bowl, mix together the garlic and mayonnaise until smooth. When the rolls are toasted, assemble the sandwiches by spreading both sides with garlic

Fuss-free crepes — yes, they really do exist

1. In a small skillet over low heat, cook the butter until it starts to turn brown and smell nutty. Transfer the butter to a blender, then add the milk, eggs, cornmeal, flour and salt. Blend just until smooth. Transfer the mixture to a bowl and let rest for 30 minutes.

2. While the batter is resting, in a medium saucepan over low heat, combine the wine, sugar and vanilla bean. Cook, stirring occasionally, until the sugar is dissolved. (If using vanilla extract, add it to the fruit after the fruit has cooked for 20 minutes.) Add the fruit, bring the mixture to a boil, then reduce heat to a simmer, cover and cook for 20 minutes.

3. While the fruit is poaching, make the crepes. Mist a 10-inch non-stick skillet with cooking spray. Heat over medium heat.

4. Stir the crepe batter and quickly pour 1/4 cup of it into the skillet, tilting the batter in the pan to make sure that the bottom is completely covered. Cook the crepe until it is lightly browned on the bottom, about 1 minute. Flip, cook for another 30 seconds, then transfer it to a rack to cool. Repeat with the remaining batter to produce 8 crepes. Once cooled, the crepes can be stacked. Set them aside.

pan. Scrape the seeds inside the vanilla bean out with the tip of a paring knife and add them to the fruit.

6. Bring the cooking liquid remaining in the saucepan to a boil and cook it until it is reduced to about 1/2 cup. Transfer the liquid to a small pitcher and return the fruit to the pan. Heat over medium until hot.

7. To assemble the crepes: Mound a bit of the fruit filling down the middle of each of the crepes, then roll up. Arrange the filled crepes, seam side down, on dessert plates, then drizzle them with the reduced sauce and top with 2 tablespoons of the yogurt. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ SARA MOULTON, AUTHOR OF THREE COOKBOOKS, INCLUDING SARA MOULTON'S EVERYDAY FAMILY DINNERS

Give me a break and I'll mind my own business

You can't have one without the other.
Why taking a vacation is just as important as taking that next call

MEGHAN GREAVES
TalentEgg.ca

Did you know that 40 per cent of the Canadian workforce is feeling the effects of vacation deprivation? And that more than 50 per cent of young Canadian workers are feeling it too (the highest rate for all age categories)? This is just some of what this year's Annual Deprivation study found when surveying Canadian workers from coast to coast.

To find out what's behind these numbers and what career-hatchers can do to prevent themselves from feeling the negative effects of vacation deprivation, we talked with Beverly Beuermann-King, a health and wellness professional and work-life balance expert who was a key player in the study.

Why work-life balance is important

"Finding work-life balance is especially difficult for students and new grads as they're used to having irregular schedules," Beuermann-King explains. "What do we see most of when life is out of balance or we've been pushing ourselves for too long? More headaches, indigestion, muscle aches and sleep problems."

Though it's possible to keep this pace up for a bit, eventually things start to catch up. These problems become more chronic and start to take their toll on our systems in the form of diabetes, obesity and depression.

Achieving that balance

One way to achieve a work-life balance, Beuermann-King says, is to talk with your employer about their wellness policies. Ask about their thoughts on vacation time and how they make sure employees don't get burned out. Be aware that talking with your employer about their wellness policies is just one step of the process, though. You still need to be making sure that you're eating properly, getting enough rest and being active to keep your body and mind healthy.

Vacation deprivation and new grads

Vacation deprivation is when you're not using all of your vacation time or when you feel as though you don't have enough time off. According to the study, vacation deprivation rates were highest in young Canadian workers.

Beuermann-King believes the younger generation is feeling it the most because we're new to the workforce and haven't accumulated very much time off yet. We also have a very different view of the workplace than older generations.

TALENTEGG.CA IS CANADA'S LEADING JOB SITE AND ONLINE CAREER RESOURCE FOR COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY STUDENTS AND RECENT GRADUATES.

Sun, sand and sanity

Here are just some of the ways that vacation deprivation can negatively affect a new grad personally and professionally:

- Decrease in creativity and productivity
- Becoming short-tempered
- Drop in drive, passion, enthusiasm and love of your job

Knowing what you need out of a vacation is key to re-energizing. Whether you need relaxation, fun, adventure, entertainment or leisure, plan your vacation to meet your needs. ISTOCK

Your thoughts?

@TalentEgg: #QuestionoftheDay: What do you do to get yourself back into work-mode if you hit an energy slump?

- @MarinighPR: I take a break, go for a walk, go get something to eat, then come back to it!
- @kristieleanne_: a playlist optimized for workflow is always key for me! Cue @Songza or @8tracks

- @mrooolf: Water, fruit, and a little pump up music always does the trick!
- @rosieehales: Try working on something different for a bit or get some fresh air! If all else fails then I hit the coffee. #QuestionoftheDay

- @danhybro: Chatting it up with a co-worker or take a coffee break. #works-likeacharm

- @janet_ha: Create a work routine that gets you back into the groove. Whether it's the same seat, same work playlist or other ritual.

Players rub salt on Braun's 'black eye'

MLB. Colleagues not jumping up to defend former NL MVP

Protective no more, baseball players are downright disgusted these days with doping.

Now they are demanding even stiffer suspensions for those caught cheating.

"It's a new generation of athletes that are standing up," Travis Tygart, chief executive of the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency, said Tuesday. "The culture's been flipped on its head."

When Ryan Braun accepted a season-ending 65-game suspension Monday rather than fight Major League Baseball over evidence he used performance-enhancing drugs, fellow players appeared tired of those who cast shadows on the sport.

"They're lying to the fans," Los Angeles Angels pitcher C.J. Wilson said. "They're lying to their teammates. They're lying to their GMs, their owners, and they're going to get caught."

Skip Schumaker of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Braun let him down.

"Watching him talk right now makes me sick," Schumaker said. "I have an autographed Braun jersey in my baseball room that I'll be taking down. I don't want my son identifying what I've worked so hard to get to and work so hard to have — I don't want him comparing Braun to me."

Matt Kemp of the Dodgers, who finished second to Braun in the 2011 NL MVP vote, said the Milwaukee slugger should be stripped of the honour.

"We had conversations, and I considered him a friend," Kemp said. "I don't think anybody likes to be lied to, and I feel like a lot of people have

A-Rod not out of the woods

New York Yankee Alex Rodriguez could face a much harsher penalty, a person familiar with the case said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

- The Yankees anticipate Rodriguez could be accused of using PEDs over multiple seasons, of recruiting other athletes for the clinic, of attempting to obstruct MLB's investigation, and of not being truthful in the past when discussing his relationship with Dr. Anthony Galea, who pleaded guilty two years ago to a U.S. federal charge of bringing unapproved drugs from Canada into the U.S.

Despite Braun's suspension, however, Kemp has no shot at claiming the MVP trophy. The Baseball Writers' Association of America has said repeatedly that it will not revisit any of its award votes.

Yankees manager Joe Girardi said Braun was guilty.

Former world champ dead at 75

Emile Griffith, the elegant world champion whose career was overshadowed by the fatal beating he gave Bennie Paret in a 1962 title bout that darkened all of boxing, died Tuesday. He was 75.

Griffith struggled with pugilistic dementia and required full-time care late in life. He was the first boxer from the U.S. Virgin Islands to become world champion and was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1990.

Griffith knocked out Paret on March 24, 1962 in the 12th round to regain the welterweight title. Paret went into a coma and died from his injuries 10 days later.

Sports Illustrated reported in 2005 that Griffith may have been fuelled by an anti-gay slur directed at him by Paret during the weigh-in. Over the years, Griffith described himself at various times as straight, gay and bisexual.

Jersey signs Jagr to shore up offence

The New Jersey Devils have signed forward Jaromir Jagr to make up for some of the scoring lost with the recent retirement of Ilya Kovalchuk.

Devils general manager Lou Lamoriello announced the signing Tuesday.

The one-year contract is worth $2 million US.

Jagr, 41, split last season with the Dallas Stars and Boston Bruins, scoring a combined 16 goals and 19 assists in 45 games.

Assembling the Eh team

Here's a look at who will hit the ice at Team Canada's Olympic orientation camp in Calgary from Aug. 25-29 and who will likely don the Maple Leaf in Sochi, Russia:

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Photos by Getty Images

Goaltenders

Canada's goaltending may be the biggest question mark heading into the Olympic tournament. More than five months before the final roster is due, there's no definite No. 1, but Yzerman isn't worried.

"We'll worry about the starter after naming the final three that we'll take to Sochi," he said. "I think some of that will work itself out over the first part of the season."

Roberto Luongo won gold in 2010, but Yzerman suggested on a conference call with reporters Monday that his playing more games for the Vancouver Canucks after the Cory Schneider trade should "bode well" for his chances of making the team. Corey Crawford is obviously a hot name after helping the Chicago Blackhawks win the Stanley Cup.

Invited to camp: Luongo*, Crawford*, Carey Price*, Braden Holtby, Mike Smith.

*Denotes players projected to make the team

Defencemen

Yzerman wants puck-movers who can get up and down the ice with ease. That's not to say there isn't room for size and physicality, but the international game on bigger ice makes speed essential.

Shea Weber of the Nashville Predators, Norris Trophy-winner P.K. Subban of the Montreal Canadiens, Drew Doughty of the Los Angeles Kings and Duncan Keith of the Blackhawks seem to be locks (barring injury) and make for an imposing top four. All but Keith are right-handed shots, but Yzerman said lefty-righty balance isn't the "end-all." Nor should it be — Canada has a plethora of strong right-handed defencemen who would be able to play their off-side without any issue. Yzerman expects to take eight defencemen to Sochi, so there will be extras in case Babcock doesn't like what he sees.

Invited to camp: Weber*, Subban*, Doughty*, Keith*, Kris Letang*, Mike Green, Dion Phaneuf, Karl Alzner, Jay Bouwmeester, Dan Boyle, Dan Hamhuis*, Travis Hamonic, Marc Methot, Alex Pietrangelo*, Brent Seabrook*, Marc Staal, Marc-Edouard Vlasic.

Forwards

No shocker here. Canada is deepest down the middle. Sidney Crosby of the Penguins, Jonathan Toews of the Blackhawks, Steven Stamkos of the Tampa Bay Lightning, Eric Staal of the Carolina Hurricanes, John Tavares of the New York Islanders and Claude Giroux of the Philadelphia Flyers lead the crop.

Wanting to fill specific roles shouldn't be hard for Team Canada up front. Patrice Bergeron of the Boston Bruins, Jordan Staal of the Hurricanes and Mike Richards of the Los Angeles Kings could be shutdown centres, freeing up players like Crosby and Giroux to concentrate at the offensive end.

Invited to camp: Crosby*, Toews*, Stamkos*, Eric Staal*, Tavares*, Giroux*, Bergeron*, Richards*, Jordan Staal, Milan Lucic*, Rick Nash, Corey Perry*, Jeff Carter*, Martin St. Louis*, Taylor Hall*, Joe Thornton, Matt Duchene, Logan Couture, Jordan Eberle, Ryan Getzlaf, Chris Kunitz, Andrew Ladd, Brad Marchand, James Neal, Patrick Sharp*.

- Transmissions. Eight-speed automatic
- Base price (incl. destination) $41,800

Interior & Technology

The new Limited receives a “limited” amount of gear destined for the Citadel, such as leather-covered seats (heated in front), heated steering wheel and an 8.4-inch (21-centimetre) screen for the Durango’s “Uconnect” infotainment and mobile communications system.

Fuel economy

Without releasing specific numbers, Dodge claims that the new transmission will help increase the Durango’s overall fuel economy by about nine per cent, which should translate into a modest improvement for the V6’s current 13 l/100 km city rating and 8.8 highway, and the V8’s 16.6/10 numbers.

Design

Dodge’s stylists have tinkered with the vehicle’s front and rear shape. There’s a slimmer “split-hair” grille with a mesh-like backdrop and an enlarged lower air intake (also featuring the mesh effect).

Review. Part Jeep, part Dodge, all family

wheelbasemedia.com

It might seem like a stretch, pardon the pun, but if you’re looking for more passenger room than a Jeep Grand Cherokee has, you’ll be looking for a Dodge.

The related Dodge Durango for 2014 actually uses the Jeep Grand Cherokee’s bones, but finds room to fit up to seven passengers versus the Jeep’s five. We told you it was a stretch. Actually, it’s a rubber-band-like 13-centimetre stretch between the front and rear wheels with 25 extra centimetres added between the front and rear bumpers. That’s enough to squeeze in three rows of seats with space left over to tote a decent amount of groceries, sports equipment, luggage or what-have-you.

The long-serving Durango was introduced for the 1998 model year as a truck-based sport-utility vehicle with body-on-frame construction, but the vehicle switched to a unitized (frameless) design for 2011. At that point, Durango sales ballooned as buyers began to embrace the vehicle for its exemplary cargo and passenger-toting capabilities. The 2014 edition that arrives this fall is more of an update than a full-on makeover, but the changes are still significant.

In back, there are new tail light pods containing light-emitting diode (LED) running lights along with Dodge’s signature “racetrack” tail light system at the rear where an additional 192 LEDs fire up in milliseconds to keep inattentive tailgaters at bay.

Inside, there’s a new three-spoke steering wheel and the instrument cluster has been reworked to accommodate the standard five-inch touch-screen info centre. Among the new options, second-row high-back bucket seats with an available full centre console can be ordered on all trim levels.

The Durango’s engine compartment is familiar, with both the base 290-horsepower 3.6-litre V6 and the optional 360-horsepower 5.7-litre “Hemi” V8 returning for duty.

The 2014 Dodge Durango can carry more people than the Grand Cherokee.

All-wheel-drive remains standard, but the drive system you get depends on engine choice. The V6 uses a permanently engaged system that automatically varies the torque between the front and rear wheels, depending on where it’s needed. The AWD V8 comes with a part-time unit with a two-speed transfer case for those times when maximum torque is needed, such as when off-roading or heading up an extra-steep hill.

The V6 is standard in the base SXT, R/T, new-for-2014 Limited and range-topping Citadel models (both rear and all-wheel-drive). The V8 is optional for the Limited and Citadel, but standard in the R/T.

Regardless of trim level, the Durango continues to deliver a level of ruggedness, interior capacity and outright performance swagger that few $40,000 to $50,000 sport utility vehicles can match at any price. And in terms of passenger count, it even outdoes the Grand Cherokee.

One of these things is not like the others

Autopilot. Nissan's DeltaWing exits early but wins more fans at Canadian racing debut

AUTO PILOT
Mike Goetz
drive@metronews.ca

If you've ever wondered, like I have, what the world's most interesting man might drive if he raced cars, then wonder no more. The answer is Nissan's DeltaWing, the world's most interesting racing car.

DeltaWing made its Canadian racing debut at last weekend's ALMS series stop at Mosport (now officially called Canadian Tire Motorsport Park). As predicted, it immediately became the crowd favourite, from when it first showed up at practice Thursday morning to when it retired early, on lap 15, during Sunday's race. The early retirement, due to low engine oil pressure, was a shame, because the first of its co-drivers, Andy Meyrick, had DeltaWing running second at the time and looking really good for a strong finish, something that's been hard to come by this season for DeltaWing.

Of course, DeltaWing gets its notoriety from being "not like the others."

DeltaWing looks like a rocket laid sideways — small front, big rear. Most racecars look like they're ready to eat corners. The DeltaWing looks like it would rather not turn, thank you. It looks the way it does because of its unique mission — to win endurance races by using half the fuel and half the tire material of a "regular" LMP1 class Le Mans racer.

DeltaWing's engineers believe this is possible because they've designed the car to have half the aerodynamic drag and half the weight of a current LMP1 or LMP2 racer (1,000 pounds versus 2,000 pounds). This means DeltaWing can do its racing thing with a smallish engine.

For this year's American Le Mans Series (ALMS) campaign, it's fitted with a turbo-charged four-cylinder 1.9-litre engine producing about 350 horsepower. By way of contrast, the overall winner of Sunday's race, the Muscle Milk Pickett Racing ARX-03, is powered by a Honda Racing 3.4-litre V8, making close to 600 horsepower.

Pre-practice on Thursday, I asked Andy Meyrick if he ever got used to the sight of the DeltaWing, or does it still freak him out?

"It's become normal now, I love it," says Meyrick. "(Co-driver) Katherine (Legge) and I call it our little baby."

You'd think those closely-spaced front tires aren't going to give you much cornering bite, but you'd be wrong. Meyrick says it's actually a pleasure to drive, mostly because it's so light.

"It changes direction easily, and you don't get the huge weight distribution and subsequent pitch in the car. So (you) just have to get used to how it feels. Very nimble. And with low drag we keep accelerating all the way down the straight-away."

Racing DeltaWing is certainly challenging in one regard — it's still a work in progress, and in need of constant development. But Meyrick says the team enjoys the challenge and believes the process ultimately makes the team and the car stronger. It looks different, but Meyrick notes that many of history's greatest racecars have also challenged conventional views — it's what they do.

"DeltaWing really challenges the way we go racing," says Meyrick.

So while DeltaWing may now challenge our conception of a go-fast car, who knows how "normal" it might become in the future. Notes Meyrick: "The numbers speak for themselves and the fans love it."
